Bio

"In terms of what I do for a living - I used to be an architectural drafter who got bored with that, went back to school, and am now a freelance graphic artist. As for my involvement in Urban art - I've been involved in graffiti since about 1989. But I become a bit bored with the whole politics of graf and enormous ego's associated with it. So I thought I'd explore other avenues of urban expression, and here I am."
