Bio

I was born in the Netherlands in 1940 and migrated with my family to Australia when I was eleven. I have always drawn, and art was my first choice of education. Teacher training followed, and I taught in primary and secondary schools, studied again, and taught at TAFE and university for twenty or so years. I have a studio at Nichols Point, and still draw and paint with pleasure. While I enjoy abstract design, it is 'reality' that most intrigues me. It interests me that art is unreal, while appearing very realistic. Art is a bizarre playground where you can create paintings of paintings, such as the increasingly complex series: 'Hero and Dolly are caught in the Witch-artist's Maze'.

Even when my work is spare, I like it to have attitude, and appear to interact with the viewer. Many of my subjects have eyes, for example, the car in Raincloud has sly cartoon eyes. A recent series called 'Otherwise' shows elaborately painted figurines (dolls and dogs etc) acting dramatically. These creatures came from a 2006 Artback trip to Silverton, which has an old-wares shop, and I began to draw them in settings as if they were at an alternate artists' camp, then brought them home – and I have not yet run out of scenarios with them as stars. Even when their eyes are broken off, they still have attitude when placed in their other-world.
